Good morning.

The soybean complex is lower after a mixed trade overnight. Corn sold off in part to a bearish Brazil production estimate. WTI crude was about 10 cents lower and USD 29 points lower. Bond market rallied and equities are sharply lower.

US weather looks wet and cool through the weekend for majority of the Midwest while record breaking temperatures that occurred late last month across the PNW could be tested this weekend into early next week. A ridge of high pressure is being advertised in the U.S. Plains during the second week of the two week outlook. The southern US is expected to dry down during the 6-10 day which will facilitate winter wheat harvesting. 11-15 still calls for drier conditions for the Great Plains and majority of the western Corn Belt.

WORLD WEATHER INC.

WORLD WEATHER HIGHLIGHTS FOR JULY 8, 2021

- A ridge of high pressure is being advertised in the U.S. Plains during the second week of the two week outlook today that the market will likely be focused upon.
    - However, before that feature kicks in to reduce rainfall and induce greater heat in the Plains, Canada's Prairies and the western fringes of the Corn Belt there will be scattered showers and thunderstorms during this first week of the outlook benefiting crops in many areas.
- Crop conditions in some of the eastern Midwest Corn and Soybean Production areas near and east of the Mississippi from Missouri to Ohio and Michigan look very good
- Tropical Storm Elsa produced some heavy rain from northern Florida into Georgia Wednesday and overnight causing local flooding
    - The storm will advance to the northeast through the Carolinas today and then to southeastern Canada later this week and into the weekend.
- South America's second week forecast today was advertised colder on the 06z GFS model run and that cold air was overdone resulting in less of a risk to Brazil crops than what the model implied
- China is getting more press about its heavy rain and flooding of late
    - Some crop damage has occurred, but the situation is probably not as great as that of last year
    - The wetter bias will continue in the central and north parts of China in the coming ten days while the south dries down for a while.
- India will still see improved rainfall in the north for a little while this weekend and next week, but the volume of rain may be a little disappointing for some areas
- India's Monsoonal rainfall has been weak and limited recently, but a boost in precipitation is expected from this weekend into next week
- Australia needs rain in South Australia, northwestern Victoria and parts of Queensland, although moisture has been sufficient to get winter crops planted and emerged; better stands will come if rainfall is bolstered again soon which does not seem very likely for a while
- Southeastern Europe is also getting a little more press over its drier bias, but the situation has not changed much in this past week and there will be "some" scattered showers and thunderstorms in the coming week to offer "partial" relief
- Other areas in Europe are in good shape
- Greater rain was noted in a part of Thailand, Cambodia and Vietnam Wednesday and additional relief to recent drying is expected
    - Myanmar also needs a boost in rainfall

Corn

- US corn futures are lower from a bearish Conab report and short term US weather outlook calling for cool and wet conditions for the majority of the Corn Belt before drier weather sinks in later this month.
- Conab reported a 3 million ton decrease in the Brazil corn crop to 93.38 million tons, 4 million above a Bloomberg survey. Production is 9.2 million tons below a year ago.
- A Bloomberg USDA survey suggests for a cut in the US corn yield to 178.7 bu/acre vs current USDA outlook of 179.5 bu/acre. U.S. soybean yields seen mostly unchanged at 50.6 bu/acre.
- A Bloomberg poll looks for weekly US ethanol production to be down 3,000 barrels (1045-1065 range) from the previous week and stocks up 115,000 barrels to 21.687 million.

Soybeans

- The US soybean complex is lower after soybeans sold off late in the electronic session. Soybean oil is leading the products lower. Conab reported a neutral Brazil soybean production estimate.
- We may see some commodity money outflow over the short-term if US equities see a good amount of selling.

Wheat
- US wheat is mixed with Chicago and Minneapolis turning lower late in the electronic session. KC is catching a bid on US weather, although the 6-10 day does suggest drier forecast for the central Great Plains that should result in an increase in winter wheat harvesting progress.
- FOA world food prices fell during the month of June from May, first time in a year led by a decline in vegetable oil (down 9.8%), cereal, and dairy prices. June price index averaged 124.6 points versus a revised 127.8 in May.
- September Paris wheat was down 0.25 euro at 199.75/ton.
- The Euro is rebounding from a 3-month low hit earlier this week against the USD earlier.

Export Developments.
- Results awaited: Algeria seeks 50,000 tons of milling wheat on July 8 for July shipment, valid until July 9.
- The Philippines seek up to 200,000 tons of feed wheat and milling wheat on Thursday, July 8. It includes 150,000 tons of feed wheat and 50,000 tons of milling wheat, all optional origin, for September, October and November shipment.
- Japan's AgMin bought 108,175 tons of food-quality wheat from the United States, Canada and Australia in a regular tender.

THIS COMMUNICATION IS CONVEYED AS A SOLICITATION FOR ENTERING INTO A DERIVATIVES TRANSACTION.

Any trading recommendations and market or other information to Customer by Futures International (FI), although based upon information obtained from sources believed by FI to be reliable may not be accurate and may be changed without notice to customer. FI makes no guarantee as to the accuracy or completeness of any of the information or recommendations furnished to Customer. Customer understands that FI, its managers, employees and/or affiliates may have a position in commodity futures, options or other derivatives which may not be consistent with the recommendations furnished by FI to Customer.

The risk of trading futures and options and other derivatives involves a substantial risk of loss and is not suitable for all persons. In purchasing an option, the risk is limited to the premium paid, and all commissions and fees involved with the trade. When an option is shorted or written, the writer of the option has unlimited risk with respect to the option written. The use of options strategies such as a straddles and strangles involve multiple option positions and may substantially increase the amount of commissions and fees paid to execute the strategy. Option prices do not necessarily move in tandem with cash or futures prices. Each person must consider whether a particular trade, combination of trades or strategy is suitable for that person's financial means and objectives.

This material may include discussions of seasonal patterns, however, futures prices have already factored in the seasonal aspects of supply and demand, and seasonal patterns are no indication of future market trends. Finally, past performance is not indicative of future results.
